

Learn How to Watch or Stream Football and Redzone this Season

Description

With the thrill of the NFL season's first two weeks behind us, it is time to turn our attention to the most crucial aspect of the next season: finding out how to watch all of the action.

Fortunately, there are many options. As is always the case, paying for cable is the most convenient option. However, for cord-cutters looking to save some money, NFL football streaming alternatives become a little more challenging to navigate. If you want to watch live games, your best bet is to subscribe to a live TV streaming service. However, because of the sheer number of channels that broadcast live games — including local CBS, NBC, and Fox channels, as well as national feeds from NFL Network and ESPN — you'll either have to pay for a relatively expensive service or make a compromise and miss some games every week.

YouTube TV ($65) is the best option for everything.

Our top selection from the previous year continues to be our top pick for 2021. Do you want to keep track of your fantasy squad using RedZone? This feature is offered as an add-on for all three services, and it costs $5 per month. If you already have a YouTube TV subscription, you may upgrade to the $11 per month Sports Plus add-on by logging into your account and selecting Settings, then the Membership option. Subscribers to FuboTV may get the Sports Plus with NFL RedZone package by going to My Profile and selecting Manage Add-ons. The package costs $11 per month. All three services, including YouTube TV and FuboTV, enable up to three people to watch at the same time (Hulu allows up to two live streams), and all three offer applications for practically every mobile device as well as crucial streaming platforms such as Amazon Fire TV, Google TV, Roku, and Apple TV. While all three services are essentially the same, we prefer YouTube TV because of its better DVR.

One thing to keep in mind is that both YouTube TV and Hulu are now running deals that will reduce their respective $65 monthly rates to $55 per month for the first three months for new subscribers. This should be plenty to get you through most of the NFL regular season before the rate increases by $10 per month. DirecTV Live Streaming AT&T TV (previously AT&T TV) provides access to most major broadcast channels. However, it is priced at $70 per month and does not include NFL Network or RedZone. Sling TV's Orange and Blue subscription, which costs $50 a month. With the Sports Extra add-on, you can also get RedZone for an additional $15 a month.

The most affordable method to watch NFL games online RedZone

RedZone is a popular technique of keeping up with all of the action in the NFL, and it allows you to see every huge play from every team in the league. The quickest and most cost-effective route to RedZone is to subscribe to Sling TV Blue for $35 per month and add the $11 per month Sports Extra extra. In addition, this option is available for streaming on various devices, including iOS and Android smartphones and tablets.

Sling is presently providing a discount on the first month of Sling Blue, bringing the cost of the main package down to $10 for the first month. Thus, sling Blue, which costs $35 a month, may be of interest to those wishing to save money on their phone bill. However, although it does not carry ESPN, which means you will be unable to watch Monday Night Football, it will carry Fox and NBC in limited cities. The problem is that those markets are primarily concentrated in large metropolitan regions, so if you reside outside of one of those locations, Sling Blue may not be a good fit for you.

Fox, of course, broadcasts the majority of NFC and Thursday night games (with the remaining matches available on NFL Network and Amazon Prime Video), while NBC broadcasts Sunday Night Football (with the remainder available on NFL Network and Amazon Prime Video). CBS, which broadcasts the vast majority of AFC games, is not available via Sling at all. An antenna, on the other hand, may fill in the gaps in the local channel. Using the Yahoo Sports app on your iOS or Android phone or tablet, you will be able to watch local and prime-time sports for free as well. You will not be able to project this broadcast onto a large screen, though.

Paramount Plus is a good option for AFC supporters on a tight budget.

Some applications, like Paramount Plus' Premium tier, which costs $10 per month, let you watch CBS' Sunday AFC games in real-time on your smartphone. However, depending on where you reside, you may not broadcast your local CBS station. CBS provides live streaming services in several areas; you may check whether your location has live CBS streaming by visiting this page. Another way for accessing CBS is to use an antenna, which you can do by downloading the Yahoo Sports app. Furthermore, as previously indicated, an over-the-air antenna linked to your television gives another free alternative that does not need streaming, as long as you have excellent reception.

Fox and Amazon Prime will broadcast Thursday Night Football.

This is perhaps the most challenging section of the NFL streaming schedule since it is on a Thursday night. The NFL Network, Fox, Amazon Prime Video, and Twitch will all broadcast most games. The NFL Network will also broadcast several games not being shown on any other network, including the Week 5 London game between the Jets and Falcons and the Week 15 Saturday doubleheader featuring opponents that have not yet been revealed. As previously said, if you want to watch the NFL Network, you will need a streaming service such as FuboTV, Hulu Plus Live TV, Sling TV Blue, YouTube TV, or the Yahoo Sports app.

What is the deal with the Sunday Ticket?

NFL Sunday Ticket is still primarily available to DirecTV satellite subscribers. However, those who live in buildings where you cannot install a satellite dish can subscribe to a streaming version of the service to watch football, which starts at $294 for its To Go package and $396 for a Max package that includes the RedZone channel, among other features (a student version is also available at a discount). On the Sunday Ticket website, you may look up your mailing address.

Category

1. Lifestyle

Date Created

October 2021

Author

tcanoah